10% flat tax, $15,000 Basic Personal Exemption

To the Premier:

With resource revenues booming, now is the time for Saskatchewan to match Alberta's 10 per cent flat income tax rate for individuals and businesses. Further, the basic personal exemption (BPE) should be raised to $15,000 to help all taxpayers.

These changes would attract more people to our province and leave existing residents with more disposable income for education, savings, and business ventures.

We, the undersigned, call upon the Legislative Assembly of Saskatchewan to implement a ten per cent tax rate for personal and business income and raise the BPE to $15,000.
